PAYING IT FORWARD

Saint Joseph High School Bingo donated a $250 Costco Gift Card to Vince Guillen for his "Paying It Forward Nana's Way" program. Bingo patrons also contributed by filling this giant wagon full of non-perishable food items. In an effort to honor their aunt, Vince and his family work together to provide Thanksgiving meals for the homeless and needy in their community.

Now here's a tip!
by Jo Ann Derson

* There are many uses for empty Tic Tac containers. Here are three: Wrap with pretty paper and use as a tiny vase for a single-stem flower. Or, separate small scrapbooking supplies in them. Last, thread two needles with a length of thread — one white and one black. Poke the needles through a small square of paper and wrap the thread around the paper. Slip into the container for a travel sewing kit.

* "Need your nails to dry in a hurry? You can use the cool setting on your hair dryer. It works really fast." — L.E. in Georgia

* To get a couple more days out of your cat litter, clean the box out and mix in a cup of baking soda.

* Remove mildew from plastic shower curtains by spraying them with a mix of bleach and water, or just toss them in the washing machine with your next load of towels.

* "We have a playroom, and the kids argue about who made what mess and who should clean up which toys. We made a cleaning schedule for the room, having one or two children per day responsible to clean up at the end of the day. It was a rough start, but the kids have learned to clean up as they go rather than leave a big mess for someone else. (Pay back is not kind.)" — A Mom, via email

* If your vacuum has a paper filter, spray it with your fave perfume or essential oil. It will blow into the air as you vacuum, leaving behind a pleasant scent.

Tough Year Leads To Triumph

Special Reporting by Indiana Bingo Bugle publisher, Gary Cheesman

Kathy Turner of Akron, Ohio says she got the best Christmas gift ever. "It's been a tough year," she began. "I've had lots of chemo and radiation for cancer and that's hard on anybody."
 But she rallied after all that treatment and felt good enough to join her two sisters on the Bingo Bugle's World Championship Bingo and Gaming Cruise.
 "My sister scheduled us on this before all my treatments, so I didn't really know if I'd make it," she explained.
 And it's a good thing she showed up for the fun because she won the whole shebang. "I'm just glad to be alive. I never thought I'd be in the running to win this," she exclaimed, referring to the $7,800 in cash she won.
 "I knew I won a game by myself on the first day, but I wasn't even listed as a leader on the second day," she said.
 But then Kathy got hot and on the last day split a win with three others and added a final win by herself to make her the champion player.
 And just to add a little spice to the fun, besides the cash, the tournament directors also threw in a balcony room cruise-for-two for the next Tournament. It sails from Orlando, Florida on November 1, 2025.
 Cruising is fun for Kathy. This is her fourth Bingo Bugle cruise. But one of her sisters had never been on a cruise of any kind before.
 "They should be happy campers now. I gave my sisters half of my cash and I kept the other," she explained.
 Oh, one other splurge the cash let Kathy purchase: "I'm gonna get an electric scooter. I don't get around very well anymore."
 Cruisers played over 100 games of Bingo and got to play for over $100,000 during the week.
 "This cruise has run continually for 35 years now," explains Tournament Director, Dennis Conroy. "That means our staff knows how to make things happen." Players even get to play early games before the tournament ever begins.
 "They're here to play Bingo," said Dennis. "So, we give 'em all the Bingo we can manage."
 If you like casino-type action you won't be disappointed either. There are Free Play Bonus drawings every night, only for Bingo Bugle cruisers who are in the casino at 10 pm each evening. And there's a Bingo Bugle slot tournament for even more gaming excitement.
 The 2024 cruise sold out, so if you're looking for a special gift for a special someone consider surprising a spouse, a friend, or a family member with a spot on the 2025 cruise and tournament. You can get the ball rolling by calling Bingo Bugle cruise special Roxanne at 888-352-2464. The staff will guide you through all the planning needs.

Pup Trains at Bingo

Our friends, Janet and John agreed to go to Bingo with us, and they brought along with them a puppy they are training for Guide Dogs for the Blind. They said they had permission to bring him to Bingo as part of his training. Janet and John are an interesting couple. They had just returned from a trip to Europe where they toured on a riverboat. "It was a marvelous experience," said Janet. "The best so far." Turns out they had taken three cruises prior to this one!

"Where did you like best?" asked Kate. "Prague," was John's instant reply. "It is the most marvelous city for exploration."

"And for shopping," added Janet. "I found some wonderful bells to add to my collection and I could have bought more but John wouldn't let me." She poked him playfully.

"But touring on a riverboat is such fun," continued John. "You are with the same group of people and you get to know and like them so when you stop for lunch you are with friends. They get to be like family."

We were setting up to play Bingo when the puppy began fussing and wanting attention. "I think I had better take him outside for a few minutes to have a bathroom break," said Janet. "Can you manage my cards, John?"

"We'll help," I volunteered, and Janet walked the puppy out the back.

The games started and Janet hadn't returned. "Well where could she have gotten to?" wondered John and he got up and took a quick peek out the backdoor. "I can't see her."

It was some time before Janet reappeared looking a bit frazzled. "That pup just wouldn't go potty! He didn't like any of the spots, so we just kept walking. Then when he finally did his business he didn't want to go back to bingo, and I didn't want to carry him. So, I just pulled out the squeaky toy I had in my pocket and lured him here squeaking it the whole way! I thought for sure you'd hear me squeaking that thing."

Then Janet was on for number 56 and she could think of nothing but Bingo. The puppy wasn't keen on not being the center of attention and began a round of adorable whimpers.

"Oh, I just have to win," said Janet, keying up the puppy a bit more with her nervousness. Her number actually did, at long last, come up and she was so excited she started jumping up and down. Of course the pup just had to join in on the celebration by barking and turning circles, tangling himself in his leash.

"Janet, you might want to calm it down a bit," said John, picking up the cute little devil with a big "Shush!"

She was ecstatic. We were ecstatic. The puppy was also ecstatic. John not so much as he had to wrangle the wriggling fur ball without dropping him on the floor. And it was a wrap on Doggy Bingo. Honestly? We loved it.

BOB ON BINGO

By Bob Whitmore

The Birth of Bingo

First of all, MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY HANUKKAH and the all the best in the coming year, I thought I would end the year by answering a common question: "What is the origin of modern-day Bingo?"

The general consensus is that what we know today as Bingo started about 500 years ago in Italy. At that time there was a nationwide lottery. It was called "Il Gioco del Lotto d'Italia."

By the 18th century (the 1700s) the concept had made its way to parts of Europe, including England and France. By this time, the game of picking out numbered squares had changed from a way to make a lot of money to a way to make a little money while having fun with companions. As European society crossed the Atlantic, so did the spread of the game. Over subsequent years, some of the players of the game began to mark their squares with dried beans. Soon, everyone was calling the game "Beano."

Now, here is a name to remember: Edwin S. Lowe. He was a toy manufacturer. He traveled the country peddling his ideas for toys. One night, with too much time on his hands, he stopped into a carnival on the outskirts of a small town in Georgia. He noticed that all the booths and attractions had closed, except for one. It was a small stand where people were laughing and shouting. They were playing Beano.

He took the concept back to his offices on Long Island and in late 1926 he began to produce a kind of home version of the game. At a dinner party, he had his guests play. When one woman won, she didn't yell "Beano" but instead yelled BINGO. And, as they say, the rest is history.

Lowe began to merchandise the game. But, HIS version of Bingo had a major flaw. He had a very limited number of combinations of cards (24)—and this was before the age of computers.

Sometime later, as he continued to try to commercialize the game, he got a call from a Catholic priest on the east coast. The priest said that his parish was using Bingo as a fundraiser, but there were too few combinations to really make the evening exciting. Lowe had a religious background, and he understood the need for fundraisers. He had been born in Poland. His father was a rabbi. He studied in the Holy Land. Certainly, he'd love to help the priest.

Lowe hired a mathematical expert who increased the combinations to 6,000.

By the way, Lowe used his profits from Bingo to invent and sell another famous game...Yahtzee. So, now you know.

BINGO LAND

NEWS FROM THE REAL WORLD & CYBERSPACE

Valiant Rescue Effort Grips a Nation

This is a true story. It was written by Ellen Fenn, a schoolteacher, nearly a century ago, and was carried in the Mt. Pleasant News as well as national and international newspapers. Ellen Fenn is the sister of Chester Mills—one of the men in the story.

A farmer Southwest of Mt. Pleasant, Lawrence Mills, and his son, Chester, had two coon dogs: Bingo, a terrier, and Black Jack, a shepherd. On a cold, clear December night they were coon hunting with Lawrence's brothers, Jesse and Jimmie on Jesse's farm. Bingo and Black Jack got hot on the trail of two raccoons. The men were following confidently, waiting for the dogs to "tree," when they realized there was only one dog baying—Black Jack. Listening intently, the men could hear the muffled yelps of Bingo coming from the depths of the earth. They soon realized that Bingo had chased one raccoon into an unknown limestone cavern, with Black Jack pursuing the other.

While searching for the entrance, the entire cave collapsed under the weight of the men. They began frantically removing dirt and stone by hand, until they came to a limestone wall. Bingo's hollow cries could be heard from within.

Black Jack returned to the collapsed spot. In staccato notes, Black Jack and Bingo yelped helplessly back and forth.

When morning arrived upon the beleaguered group, they trudged home for digging tools. By midmorning, every party on the local phone line, and those reached by the Salem switchboard operator, knew that Mills' Bingo was imprisoned. Women went to work preparing lunches. Sympathizers flocked to the scene. A coon dog was part of almost every farm household and feeling ran deep.

Hundreds were touched by the frantic rescue operation. By the second day, scores had volunteered with picks, shovels, axes, spades, lanterns, and lots of advice—even dynamite. Workers hearing Bingo's frantic yelps labored on—one crew relieving another.

By the third day the story had spread over the state, nation and world. It was the height of the Great Depression, and people seemed to identify with a trapped and helpless coon dog.

It was determined that Bingo had fallen into a deep chamber. December's farm activities ceased in the Mt. Pleasant-Salem area. Eugene and Leo Mills, small sons of Chester, trudged over the stony hillside to check progress. They then returned home to report to their mother and grandmother, who then relayed the news to the world. Calls came unceasingly. State and local reporters plus an audience of 50-to-100 people came and went.

On the fourth day, after finding small passageways that led further and further inward from the main tunnel, the men discussed abandoning Bingo. It was agreed that it was time for the last-ditch effort—dynamite. The explosion tore away the last remaining limestone wall, but Bingo, frightened by the noise, crawled further inward.

A Christmas message from Florida, a eulogy from a senator, and a letter addressed to "Bingo Mills," with a prayer for safe deliverance—injected a booster-shot of hope. The weary rescue group...bundled and hooded, their faces black, continued to dig.

On the morning of the fifth day, Chester, alone in the cave, tempted Bingo with food on the end of a long pole. The weary terrier managed to crawl out of his narrow confinement to where Chester could lift him. Bingo was weak, his feet bleeding, his fur torn and his claws gone. But he was alive. Chester carried Bingo and the good news home. Again the wires hummed: "Bingo is home for Christmas!" As retold by The Hawk Eye of Iowa, Iowa's oldest Newspaper.

Unique Bingo Calls

Dear Aunt Bingo,

I finally thought of a question that I hope you can answer for me. Every now and then, when they call out N-40, you sometimes hear people say "Four-Tee." Why is that? When I asked the person who does this, they didn't know the answer either. Also, I've heard that I-26 is the most hated number at Bingo. Have you ever heard that? If so, why?

Dottie L., Nashua, NH

Dear Dottie,

Bingo is not just a game of numbers, it's a communal experience, and balls often have their own unique call-out phrases and lucky/unlucky numbers. While the aim of the game is to win, these phrases and special numbers help to build a bond among players, turning strangers into friends over shared references. Beyond entertainment and camaraderie, there's a functional aspect to some call-out phrases. By using unique phrases, players don't misinterpret the announced number, reducing the likelihood of errors.

One guess is that calling out FOUR-TEE became a tradition in your hall simply to help distinguish it from the number four. There is a very remote possibility that it relates to 40 being a significant number in Biblical scripture, but this wouldn't explain breaking the word into two distinct syllables.

Which leads me to my best guess which is that players are actually saying "Four TEA" because of your state's not insignificant historical ties to the import of tea in the colonial era. For example, after Boston's famous tea event, New Hampshire's residents were among those who sent foodstuff to aid "beleaguered Boston"; and colonial New Hampshire women met at local homes and organized what became a campaign to ban English tea in their households. I learned these history tidbits from a charming online blog called Cow Hampshire, "New Hampshire's History Blog."

As for your hall's hatred of number I-26, there is no mention of this number being considered unlucky among the larger Bingo community. The most commonly cited unlucky Bingo number is, not surprisingly, 13. However, after doing some sleuthing on the internet, I did find a substantial dislike being expressed for your state's section of Interstate 26, or...I-26. There were several lively online conversations about driving on I-26 in New Hampshire—99% of which contained comments rich in (unprintable) curse words. To be honest, I could find only one comment about I-26 on these threads that I could print, and it was: "Why do I even bother to drive on I-26." As they say online, LOL.

I hereby declare these two particular Bingo mysteries solved, but of course, please keep asking around, and if you find other explanations, let me know ASAP! — Aunt Bingo

PICKS OF THE MONTH

Beetlejuice Beetlejuice (PG-13) — Thirty-six years after Michael Keaton first stunned audiences with his performance as the titular green-haired jokester in the classic film Beetlejuice, Keaton dons his striped wardrobe once again for a sequel you don't want to miss! Winona Ryder and Catherine O'Hara reprise their respective roles as Lydia and Delia Deetz, but this time, the original cast is joined by scream queen Jenna Ortega (Wednesday), Monica Bellucci (Spectre), and Willem Dafoe (Kinds of Kindness). With improved visual effects and compelling storylines, this sequel is just as entertaining as, if not more than, the original! Out now to rent. (Apple TV+)

House of Spoils (R) — Academy-Award-winning actress Ariana DeBose (West Side Story) leads this supernatural film produced by horror powerhouse Blumhouse Productions. DeBose's character is solely known as Chef, a culinary connoisseur who opens a fine-dining restaurant in an isolated estate in the middle of nowhere. Easier said than done, Chef realizes, as she learns how to deal with the challenging aspects of owning her own eatery, like finding reliable staff, working to impress her investor, managing her anxiety, and fighting an evil spirit that seems to be lurking in every corner of the state. Will Chef let her dreams spool right in front of her? See for yourself! (Amazon Prime Video)

The Menendez Brothers (R) — Lyle and Erik Menendez have garnered a lot of traction due to Ryan Murphy's dramatized series Monsters that covered the brothers' story. Now Netflix is letting them tell their story through a documentary film, more than 30 years after the murders of their parents first took place. In the doc, which is out now, Lyle and Erik call in from prison to explain their sides of what occurred that August night in 1989 and why their claims of abuse weren't taken seriously by the jury during both trials. Family members, lawyers, jurors and reporters who were involved with the case weigh in with their points of view, while lead prosecutor Pamela Bozanic still maintains that the brothers are lying about the abuse and deserve to be incarcerated. Casino Q&A Q: What are the odds of hitting a back-to-back jackpot?

A: It's commonly believed that once a jackpot is hit, it won't hit again for a long time. The truth is that a jackpot has the same chance of hitting on the very next spin. Here's a sad but true story. Players tend to avoid playing a machine with winning symbols appearing on the screen. So, after a jackpot hand-pay, it's customary in some casinos for a casino employee to ask the winning player to make another spin to clear the winning symbols from the screen. One winning player refused to do so, and the employee made the spin to clear the screen. And as luck would have it, another jackpot was hit. Who did this second jackpot belong to, the player or the casino? If you guessed the casino, you're right.

Q: If I hit a $5,000 jackpot, can I ask the casino to withhold some of it for income tax purposes?
A: No. Casinos don't work for the IRS. As a rule, casinos don't withhold money from reportable U.S. winnings. You would be better off taking money set aside for tax purposes and put it into some sort of savings account at your bank or credit union then payout what you need at tax time. Money given early to the IRS doesn't earn any interest.

GAMING HEALTH TIP: Slot machines, casino chips, playing cards, doorknobs, handrails and other casino objects are touched by hundreds, if not thousands, of people every day. As a result, these objects become breeding grounds for a wide variety of germs and viruses. And your chances of returning home with a case of the "casino flu" are much greater than with a wallet full of cash. When you walk past a casino restroom, think of all the surfaces you have touched. Then go in and wash your hands. How long? Say the English alphabet (slowly). After drying your hands with a paper towel, use the same towel to turn off the faucets—washroom faucets are prime sources of contamination. An alternative to hand washing is the use of a hand sanitizer, either alcohol-based or gel-available at any drug store or casino gift shop. This simple health precaution will drastically reduce your chances of returning home with the "casino flu."

Dead man's fingers If they are found at the base of trees such as apple or crabapple trees, the growth may be infecting the tree, causing black root rot. Any tree thus infected should be carefully removed, including the stump, the surrounding soil and as much of the root system as possible. — Brenda Warner

If these fungal growths are found in mulch or dirt, they are likely not of much concern and can be removed easily; but make sure that as you do so you remove all the soil or mulch around them, and then sanitize any tools, gloves or shoes that come in contact.

Mr. Lowe and Mr. Snowden

Getting old sucks. I used to wake up feeling like a million bucks, but now it's more like a bounced check. — Ms. Know-It-All Cheers to bingo's December birthday! What would we do for fun if Edwin Lowe had not stumbled across Beano in 1929? Since then, Beano, renamed Bingo, has materialized into one of the most popular games in the world, prompting Roger Snowden in 1979 to launch Bingo Bugle. To promote charitable bingo and Native American bingo, he grew his small magazine into one of the largest bingo/gaming publications in the world. Mail subscriptions are available but 95% of Bugles in bingo halls are free. What a deal, so thank you Mr. Snowden and Mr. Lowe for the part you played in producing generations of bingo fanatics.

Here are some other bingo tidbits. First, bingo is played in over sixty countries worldwide. Second, the average bingo player in the US spends about $500/year on bingo games resulting in the bingo industry contributing over three billion annually to the US economy. Third, there are over 500 septillion combinations of numbers that can appear on bingo cards with a septillion being a 1 with 24 zeroes after it. One lucky

Sweet Potato Soup

Dear Annie, How about a recipe for a sweet potato soup—that would make me very happy if you have this recipe. Thanks a lot. Pat P., from Michigan winner against all those odds was a Georgia lady who paid $5 for a bingo card and won $10,000 on a progressive game which hadn't been won in six years. Hmmm. I wonder if she was a regular player at that bingo or someone who just popped in on a whim. Some players in the hall grumble when a newcomer wins; but, hey, it's all luck and newcomers paid to play so my advice is be cordial if a newcomer collects some cash. Last tidbit, the largest bingo hall in the world is in Foxwoods Resort Casino, Connecticut, with a capacity of over 3,000+ players. Started in 1992, it is operated by the Mashantucket Pequot Tribal Nation and though Robert and I haven't played bingo there, we have visited. Just exploring the whole Foxwoods venue is an experience as there are four interconnected casinos with each one offering special features. Google foxwoods.com/bingo to find out more.

Happy December birthday to me! I was born cons ago at 5:17a.m. and my mother laughingly and lovingly told me more than once that she almost dropped me into a chamber pot during my birthing in her home bedroom. I know, TMI (too much information), but truth be told, my brothers more than once called me a sh#s%$, but that was fake news as I never hit the pan so to speak.

December has the shortest days of the year and in parts of Alaska and Canada the sun never rises and those living there are in complete darkness for several days. If you are there at that time, your stress could be less as you wouldn't see as many ugly sweaters which are glorified and prevalent on December 21st, National Ugly Sweater Day. Two Canadians are credited with launching the first Christmas Sweater Party which thanks to social media have become massive events in the U.S. and elsewhere. Until next month, may Lady Luck blow you kisses as you dance out the door with dollars. Win big in an ugly sweater and send me a pic to make an old lady laugh. Contact: nlpzv6172@gmail.com.

- 4 sweet potatoes (1 lb. each)
8 cups chicken stock
1/3 cups butter
1/4 cup half and half
2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup cashews (split in half)

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Bake the sweet potatoes for 45 minutes or until they are soft. Cool the potatoes until they can be handled. Peel away the skin, then put the potatoes into a large bowl. Mash the potatoes. Spoon them into a large saucepan over a medium to high heat, add the remaining ingredients and stir to combine. When the soup begins to boil, reduce the heat and simmer for 50 to 60 minutes. Add the cashews as garnish. Serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

Too Loud and Clear

Dear Guy, Last night I got into an argument with the boss of one of the Bingos I go to about the sound system. They have the volume cranked up way too loud so that you can actually feel the sound bounce off of you when they call the numbers...

Veterans Post

Pandemic Fraud

The Covid pandemic has been a pot of gold for scammers who want to exploit the critical needs of hospitals and doctors. However, the criminals aren't too bright.

There was the medical supply company that conspired to sell masks that were misbranded, trying to pass them off to hospitals as genuine National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH)-approved N95 masks. The thieves gathered up their fake masks from miscellaneous sources and shipped them off at inflated prices...

A whole alphabet of federal agencies, including the VA's Office of Inspector General, came together in this effort to investigate and prosecute the thieves. Between the price gouging, the fake masks and the interstate commerce, the authorities had a good case for pandemic-related defrauding and conspiracy.

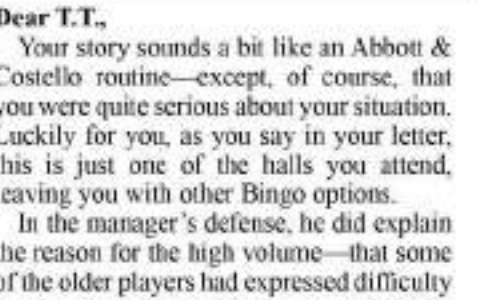

When the case goes to court, selling misbranded medical equipment alone could net the thieves a fine of a half a million dollars. Adding in the interstate commerce and price gouging could tack on additional fines and years in prison.

Then there was the guy who tried to sell millions of dollars of personal protective equipment to the VA. The scam was pretending the company was an authorized distributor of the PPE. They even generated a fake website and email address. The goods that were sent out were non-conforming and the masks were counterfeit.

In one scam, however, it almost wasn't worth the thief's time: A woman was given two paycheck protection loans for two businesses she owned — except she didn't own a business. All she got out of the scam was $41,000.

When are they going to learn? The thieves eventually get caught, and we have the VA OIG and other alphabet agencies to thank for it.

Dear T.T.

Your story sounds a bit like an Abbott & Costello routine—except, of course, that you were quite serious about your situation. Luckily for you, as you say in your letter, this is just one of the halls you attend, leaving you with other Bingo options. In the manager's defense, he did explain the reason for the high volume—that some of the older players had expressed difficulty hearing the caller and had requested it. The fact that you were the only person to say it was too loud does put you in the minority, and the manager will obviously honor the request of the larger group that asked for it to be louder.

THE MIDDLETONS

How to Boost your VP Play

This month and next I'll focus on concepts and strategies that will help you win at video poker. Learn Before You Play My advice is to learn how to play video poker well before you start playing in the casino—it can be a lucrative game if you do so...

For example, many casinos offer a jacks-or-better game that pays 8 coins for a full house and 5 coins for a flush (per coin played). This information is right on the computer screen of each machine. The theoretical return for this game is 97.3%. In the same casino there may be a jacks-or-better machine that pays 9 coins for a full house and 6 coins for a flush. The theoretical return for this game is 99.54%.

Achieving Theoretical Returns The above theoretical returns can only be achieved if you play every hand perfectly. This may seem like a daunting task, but it isn't. I taught video poker classes in Las Vegas and all my students were able to learn the playing strategy. The easiest way to learn any video poker playing strategy (say for jacks-or-better) is to practice playing video poker on your computer. Also, you can take a video poker strategy card with you when you play (they are perfectly legal) and you'll always make the correct play. Hey, I teach video poker classes and I still carry my video poker card with me when I play, just in case I run across a hand that I'm not sure how to play. If you play video poker, always have your video poker card handy.

Merry Christmas!

Get Smart, Organize Now

Dear Savvy Senior, I would like to get my personal, legal and financial information organized so my kids will know what's going on when I'm no longer around. Can you offer any ideas on the best way to do this? —Procrastinating Paul

Dear Paul,

Organizing your important papers and getting your personal and financial affairs in order is a smart idea and wonderful gift to your loved ones. Here are some tips to get you started. GET ORGANIZED The first step in getting your affairs in order is to gather up all your important personal, financial and legal information so you can arrange it in a format that will benefit you now, and your loved ones later. Then you'll need to sit down and create various lists of important information and instructions of how you want certain things handled when you die or if you become incapacitated. Here's a checklist of areas you need to focus on.

- Pets: If you have a pet, give instructions for the care of the animal.
-End of life: Indicate your wishes for organ and tissue donation and write out your funeral instructions.
-LEGAL DOCUMENTS
--Will, trust and estate plan: Include the original copy of your will and other estate planning documents you've made.
--Financial power of attorney: This document names someone you trust to handle money matters if you're incapacitated.
--Advance health care directives: This includes a living will and medical power of attorney, which spell out your wishes regarding your end-of-life medical treatment when you can no longer make decisions for yourself.
-FINANCIAL RECORDS
--Financial accounts: Make a list of all your bank accounts, brokerage and mutual fund accounts, and any other financial assets you have.
--Debts and liabilities: Make a list of any loans, leases or debt you have—mortgages owed, car loans, student loans, medical bills, credit card debts. Also, make a list of all credit and charge cards, including the card numbers and contact information.
--Company benefits: List any retirement plans, pensions or health benefits from your current or former employer including the contact information of the benefits administrator.
--Insurance: List the insurance policies you have (life, long-term care, home, auto, Medicare, Medigap, prescription drug, etc.) including the policy numbers, agents, and phone numbers.
--Property: List real estate, vehicles and other properties you own, rent or lease and include documents such as deeds, titles, and loan or lease agreements.
--Taxes: Include the location of your tax records and your tax preparer's contact information.
--Digital assets: Make a list of all your digital assets, including everything from social media accounts to online banking accounts to home utilities that you manage online. It should include usernames and passwords. Use Rutgers Digital Assets Inventory Worksheet (rutgers.edu/money/pdfs/digital-assets-worksheet.pdf) as a guide.
